

Abstract

A processor loads, authenticates, and/or initiates execution of authenticated code modules in response to executing launch authenticated code instructions.